I Didn't Believe I'd Ever Be a Well Man Again—He Says

PROMINENT REAL ESTATE MAN SAYS TANLAC FILLED HIM WITH NEW LIFE AND ENERGY.

"A year ago I didn't believe I would ever be a well man again, but Tanlac has put new life in me and I feel so good I'd like to run a foot race with some of the boys," was the characteristic statement of G. F. Hamilton, a well-known real estate man of Amarillo, Texas, recently.

"I suffered for eight or nine years," he went on, "from rheumatic pains and sciatica that run up and down my sides like a fire breaking out and burning. I also had catarrh that bothered me constantly, a hard lump would form in my side that made me uneasy, for I couldn't tell what it was. My nerves were in a pretty bad state and worried me all the time. Last year when I was so run-down I was out working in my garden one day and my head grew light and dizzy and I had an awful fall, and I was so shaken up and weak and nervous afterwards I was afraid almost to stir about any."

"I began to take Tanlac a little while ago and it has done me a wonderful amount of good. My nerves were now perfectly steady like when I was a younger man, and I am feeling more like my old self again. I feel lively and more energetic and want to be stirring about and doing things. Tanlac has done me more good than anything I ever saw or ever took in my life before, and I gladly thank him every chance I get."

Tanlac is sold in Amarillo by Collins-Austin Drug Co.

Russian Prohibition Was Not Reality Till Lately

PETROGRAD, June 12.—(By Mail)—Russia never has been dry. Under the old censorship of the days of czardom no correspondent would have been permitted to send this fact to the outside world. But now the truth may be told.

The Russian government officials discovered that it pleased the czar greatly to be placed before the outside world as being the sponsor of prohibition in Russia and they did all they could in the way of giving out erroneous impressions as to the extent of the dry wave in Russia.

Russia did go dry for the peasants. But the czar's famous prohibition law was so arranged that any man with money enough could get all the liquor he desired. The government manufacture of vodka was stopped and a law was passed prohibiting the sale of any liquor containing more than 2 per cent of alcohol. The importation of wine did not cease. The price of champagne went up to $25 a bottle with other prices in proportion. The popular cabarets, hotels and restaurants served wines in China pitchers and China cups, but everywhere the man with money was able to have all his liquor orders filled to his smallest whim.

Foreigners were permitted to purchase all liquors in the shops provided they presented permits to purchase issued by their embassies.

There was no law of any kind that prevented a citizen from having liquor on his premises or from drinking it.

The revolution, which put the Workmen and Soldiers committee into power, practically made Russia dry for the first time. Today a few daring hotel keepers will sell a bottle of cognac for from twenty-five to forty dollars or a small bottle of ordinary claret for from ten to fifteen. The importation of any sort of portable alcohol has ceased and the high price of liquor is really due to its scarcity in the country. Russia is rapidly becoming "bone dry."

There is no doubt in the minds of Russians that their revolution was practically bloodless because it was practically bloodless. There are some Russian leaders who say that it was the absence of alcohol that made the revolution possible. A drunken soldier of the old type could never have aroused himself to real revolt as this Russian has done. A social leader said to me:

"One of the greatest mistakes the czar ever made was to force the peasants to sober up. He took the peasant and made them sober; he gave them good clothes in the way of military uniforms and he gave each peasant a rifle and taught him how to shoot. He thought he was turning the peasants into soldiers but they remained peasants at heart. When the right time came these sobered peasants turned their guns on him."

Christian Endeavor promptly at 7:15. Splendid program and fine discussion. All young people welcomed. Prayer meeting Wednesday night at 8:30.

Everybody cordially invited; strangers always welcome.

"We seen a Boche who really understands the war," declared an English officer recovering from a bit of shrapnel in a field hospital. "I was wounded when we captured him and he carried me for half a mile. This was the greatest crime the world has ever known." "We see," the officer related, "that is what the Boche said." "The crimes of the hosts who are running Germany today are unspeakable. They were savages and bandits when they started the war but now they're the bloodiest marauders by wholesale, the world over probably. They know perfectly well they've lost the war but they are determined. Your artillery kills them in bunches, at their own miserable shells in all. Our men would gladly give themselves it and call a halt; and because you up to end it but you know they are frightened of what the people might do when they leave the earth, they keep the thing going and sacrifice many thousands of Germans every single day, just to shield the reputations of a handful of prima donnas and politicians. There on this front fighting. Thank God I'm captured and out of it."

THIRD ANNUAL SAXON ECONOMY RUN 300 MILES

Saxon "Six," $935; Saxon "Six" Chummy Roadster,

$935; Saxon "Six" Sedan,

$1325; "Four" Roadster,

$495.

July 18th the Saxon Motor Company will stage the biggest economy run ever promoted by any company.

People today are interested in economy figures and rightly so. They are beginning to ask why they should pay money to carry around superfluous weight in their automobile. It is well known that operating expenses are directly proportionate to the weight of the car.

Because SAXON "SIX" has scientifically reduced its weight until it now classes as the lightest of the light sixes, is largely accountable for its minimum operating expense.

Last year 206 Saxon "Sixes" entered the three hundred non-stop run. 206 Saxon "Sixes" ran 61,800 miles without stopping their motors for a total average of 23 1-2 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Watch for announcement of results of the big third annual non-stop economy run of 300 miles.

We'll give you facts and figures as to gasoline and oil consumption, tire and all other repairs—in fact—we'll give you the exact cost of operating a Saxon "Six" over three hundred miles of country roads.

Suppose This Were YOU!

Suppose one of your wheels collapsed on a lonely road, miles from any garage or repair shop. Suppose you had to sit by the roadside for hours and wait for help to get home. Not a pleasant thought, is it? But that's what may happen any time if you go out with loose wheels.

SPOKITE

Swell Wood is Not Glue

Tightens and Strengthens Loose Wheels

Don't take chances! Apply Spokite at once to the shrunken wood of your wheels and be safe. Spokite goes right into the wood, seizes it tightly and keeps it tight. Simply squirt Spokite into the cracks caused by the shrinking and in an hour your wheels will be tight and solid. You can do this without taking the wheels off or apart.

25c Does a $2.50 Job

Instead of paying $2.50 per wheel to have them tightened; you pay only 25c for a can of Spokite sufficient to tighten four wheels. You can do the job in an hour and be sure of having no further trouble. Mr. Jas. T. Irwin, Modesto, Cal., writes that his wheels were so loose he was going to throw them away. Spokite saved him the price of a new set. Thousands of others use it with equal satisfaction.

Get Spokite From Nearest Garage, Auto Supply or Hardware Store

What it does for other cars can do for you. Save yourself from the inconvenience and danger of loose wheels by getting out Spokite at once. If your dealer doesn't supply it, write to the factory and we will see that you get a quantity
